

PODCAST PICK

Sibling Fights: When to Step In (and When to Stay Out)

RAISING GOOD HUMANS

DR. ALIZA PRESSMAN • 39 MIN

Sibling conflict is a normal part of childhood — and it can actually be a valuable opportunity for kids to learn how to disagree, problem-solve, and repair. In this episode, Dr. Aliza Pressman shares a practical, compassionate framework for helping parents respond to sibling conflict without becoming the referee.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Be the witness,
not the judge

Try “sportscaster mode”
instead of picking sides

Know when conflict
needs adult intervention

Remember: fair doesn’t always mean equal

Support authentic repair
rather than forced apologies

Build connection through simple family rituals

*A helpful listen for parents wondering:
Do I step in...
or let them work
it out?*

LISTEN TO THE EPISODE

